Attorney General Griffin Announces Arrest of Little Rock Man on Child Pornography Charges

Griffin: 'Fighting the exploitation of our most vulnerable remains a priority for my office, and we will continue to work to bring these perpetrators to justice'

LITTLE ROCK – Attorney General Tim Griffin today issued the following statement after agents in his Special Investigations Division obtained an arrest warrant for Douglas Eugene Callaway, 58, of Little Rock on two felony counts of pandering or possession of visual or print medium depicting sexually explicit conduct involving a child:

“Yesterday, special agents from my office obtained an arrest warrant for Callaway after a sex offender compliance check, and he was then taken into custody by the Arkansas Department of Corrections (ADC). I am grateful to the ADC for contacting my office after they discovered that Callaway, a level 2 sex offender, owned an additional phone.

“Fighting the exploitation of our most vulnerable remains a priority for my office, and we will continue to work to bring these perpetrators to justice.”

The recovered phone was brought to the Special Investigations Division’s lab for forensics and was determined to contain Child Sexual Abuse Material (CSAM). Callaway was booked into the Pulaski County Regional Detention Facility.
